QUANTILE PARTNERS WITH ACADIASOFT ON RISK REDUCTION INITIATIVE

November 11, 2016, London and New York; Quantile Technologies Limited (“Quantile”), a derivatives risk optimisation firm, and AcadiaSoft Inc. (“AcadiaSoft”), experts in collateral management automation, today announced the launch of a risk reduction service for the financial services industry. The partnership between the two firms will enable derivatives market participants to significantly reduce counterparty credit risk and associated resources such as initial margin, across a wide range of asset classes and financial instruments, including swaps, options and NDFs.

Quantile’s risk mitigation service, which deploys optimisation technology to generate transactions designed to reduce concentrations of counterparty risk, will be made available on AcadiaSoft Hub, the industry’s only straight-through margin processing solution. The service is targeted at the full array of derivatives market participants, and is expected to go-live before the end of this year, with initial adoption from the world’s major dealers.

“The agreement with Quantile we are announcing today instantly creates a market-leading risk optimization platform,” said Chris Walsh, CEO of AcadiaSoft. “The new service underscores AcadiaSoft’s pre-eminent position in financial services margin management and serves to enhance our role as the global margin data analytics hub.”

“Quantile’s partnership with AcadiaSoft provides a powerful union which combines AcadiaSoft’s margin data infrastructure with Quantile’s deep risk management expertise” said Stephen O’Connor, Chairman of Quantile. “Counterparty credit exposure between major market participants is a key driver of systemic risk and direct action to reduce those exposures using this service will deliver tangible benefits to the market.”
